Agenda

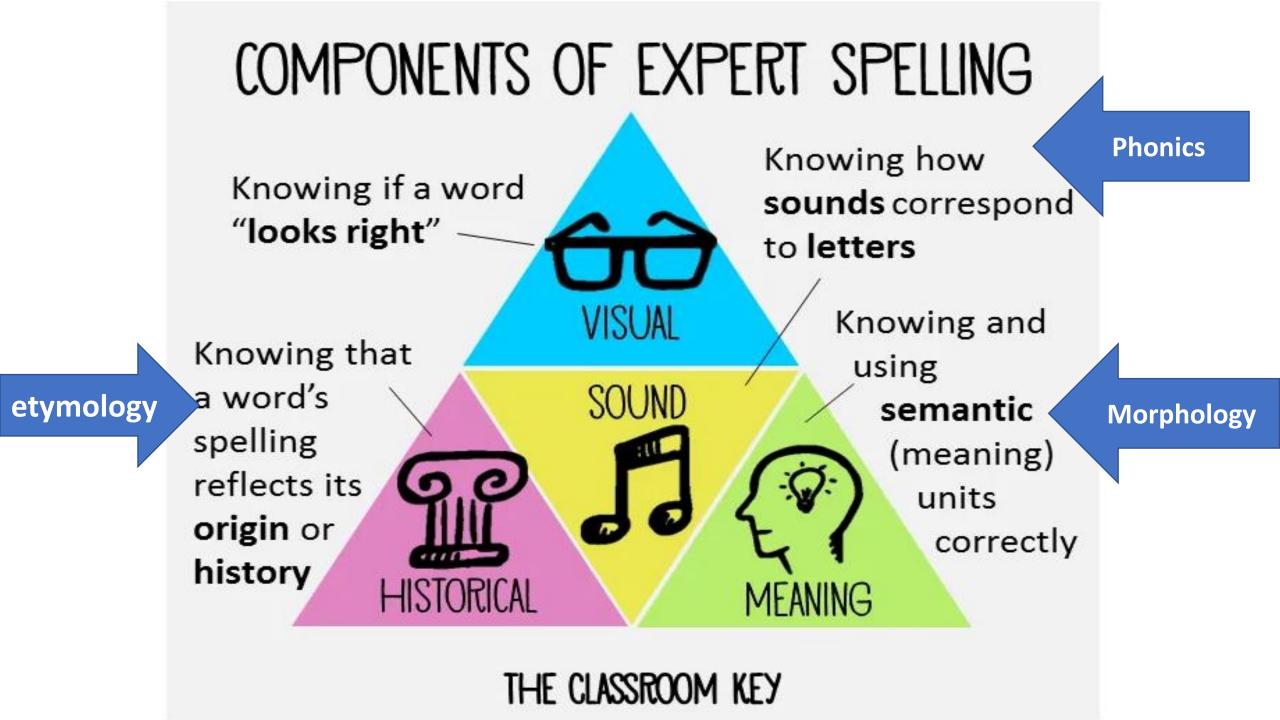

Leadership of spelling – overview and progression/consistency of approach

- The link between phonics and spelling
- What is spelling in KS2? How do children learn to spell?
- The KS2 SAT spelling test
- What is an effective lesson? How to ensure progression?
- An example lesson and unit structure
- Using dictation
- A speedy road map of spelling rules and progression of year by year content
- Key strategies for effective learning

What is Spelling?

- Phonics (phase 1-5) (understanding letter-sound correspondence and the individual parts that make up words)
- Morphology (phase 6) (understanding/recognizing similar chunks in words, word families, and word parts)
- Etymology (KS2)(the study of the origin of words and the way in which their meanings have changed throughout history)
- Vocabulary word study
- Application of skills dictation

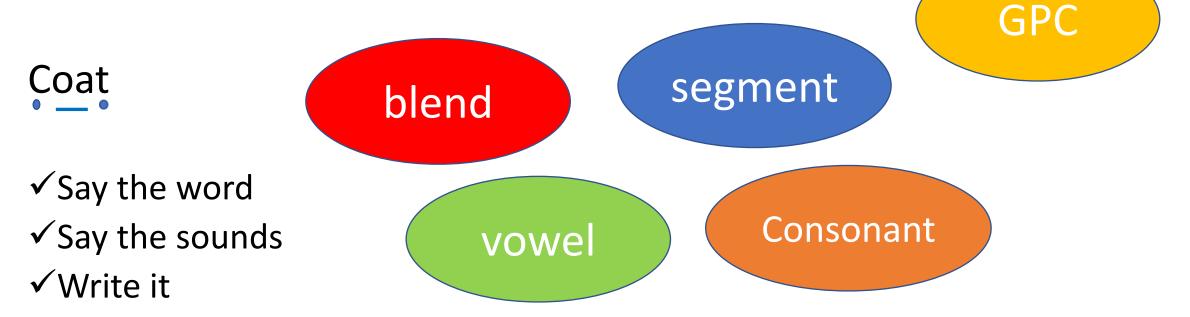

Key aspects of spelling in all year groups

- Prefixes
- Suffixes
- Word endings
- Homophones
- Common Exception Words

National Curriculum: English Appendix 1

Phase 6 – NC spelling objectives – Year 2

- Where phonics meets spelling 'the bridge'
- Grounded in phonics simple code (blending) advanced code (phase 5 and 6)
- In year 3 must be secure in phase 6, if not go back to it!
- Use principles of effective phonics teaching in spelling too
- Use of terminology universal segment with me:

Vowels and Consonants

- The alphabet is made up of 26 letters, 5 of which are vowels (a, e, i, o, u) and the rest of which are consonants.
- A vowel is a sound that is made by allowing breath to flow out of the mouth, without closing any part of the mouth or throat.
- A consonant is a sound that is made by blocking air from flowing out of the mouth with the teeth, tongue, lips or palate ('b' is made by putting your lips together, 'l' is made by touching your palate with your tongue).
- The letter 'y' makes a consonant sound when at the beginning of a word ('yacht', 'yellow') but a vowel sound when at the end of a word ('sunny', 'baby').

Vowels and Consonants

- Sometimes two vowels are put together to make one sound, such as ai, oo, ea, ie which can be found in words such as rain, boot, read and pie. When two vowels are put together to make one sound, this is called a vowel digraph.
- Sometimes two consonants are put together to make one sound, such as th, ch and sh which can be found in words such as bath, chip and mash. When two consonants are put together to make one sound, this is called a consonant digraph
- In English we rarely have three or more vowels together; beautiful, queue, liaise, quail, quiet, squeal are some of the few words that use this spelling pattern.
- Every word in the English language contains a vowel. This is quite a useful thing to know when playing hangman: go for the vowels first!

Knowledge of the spelling system

In Phase Six children need to acquire more word-specific knowledge. They still need to segment words into phonemes to spell them, but they also learn that good spelling involves not only doing this and representing all the phonemes plausibly but also, where necessary, choosing the right grapheme from several possibilities.

In some cases, word-specific spellings (e.g. sea/see; goal/pole/bowl/soul; zoo/ clue/flew/you) simply have to be learned. It is important to devote time in this phase to learning common words with rare or irregular spellings (e.g. they, there, said) as the quantity children write increases and without correction they may practise incorrect spellings that are later difficult to put right.

However, there are spelling conventions or guidelines that generalise across many words and that children should understand. Where there are exceptions these can usually be dealt with as they arise in children's reading and writing.

Some useful spelling guidelines

1. The position of a phoneme in a word may rule out certain graphemes for that phoneme. The ai and oi spellings do not occur at the end of English words or immediately before suffixes; instead, the ay and oy spellings are used in these positions (e.g. play, played, playing, playful, joy, joyful, enjoying, enjoyment). In other positions, the /ai/ sound is most often spelled ai or a-consonant-vowel, as in rain, date and bacon. The same principle applies in choosing between oi and oy: oy is used at the end of a word or immediately before a suffix, and oi is used elsewhere. There is no other spelling for this phoneme.

Ē

Note that it is recommended that teachers should (at least at first) simply pronounce the relevant vowel sounds for the children – /a/, /e/, /i/, /o/ and /u/; /ai/, /ee/, /igh/, /oa/ and /oo/. Later the terms 'long' and 'short' can be useful when children need to form more general concepts about spelling patterns.

- When an /o/ sound follows a /w/ sound, it is frequently spelt with the letter a (e.g. was, wallet, want, wash, watch, wander) – often known as the 'w special'. This extends to many words where the /w/ sound comes from the qu grapheme (e.g. quarrel, quantity, squad, squash).
- When an /ur/ sound follows the letter w (but not qu) it is usually spelt or (e.g. word, worm, work, worship, worth). The important exception is were.
- An /or/ sound before an /l/ sound is frequently spelled with the letter /a/ (e.g. all, ball, call, always).

Adding suffixes to words

During Phase Six, children should also start to learn spelling conventions for adding common endings (suffixes) to words. Most children will have taken words with suffixes in their stride in reading, but for spelling purposes they now need more systematic teaching both of the suffixes themselves and of how the spelling of base words may have to change slightly when suffixes are added. Some grammatical awareness is also helpful here: just knowing that the regular past tense ending is spelt -ed is not enough – children also need to be aware that the word they are trying to spell is a past tense word. Without this awareness, they may, for example, spell hopped as hopt, played as plaid, grabbed as grabd and started as startid – perfectly accurate phonemically, but not correct. Conversely, once they have understood that the -ed ending can sometimes sound like /t/, they may try to spell soft as soffed, unless they realise that this word is not the past tense of a verb. (See 'Introducing and teaching the past tense' on page 170).

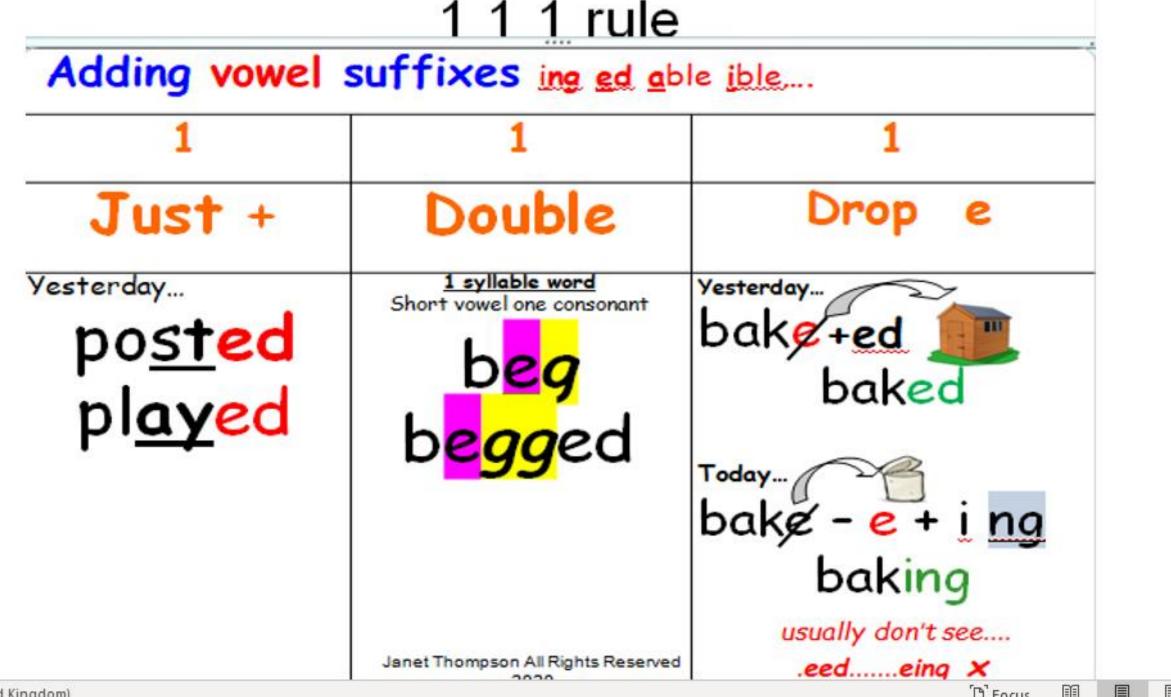

These are examples of common suffixes suitable for Phase Six:

- -s and -es: added to nouns and verbs, as in cats, runs, bushes, catches;
- -ed and -ing: added to verbs, as in hopped, hopping, hoped, hoping;
- -ful: added to nouns, as in careful, painful, playful, restful, mouthful;
- -er: added to verbs to denote the person doing the action and to adjectives to give the comparative form, as in runner, reader, writer, bigger, slower;
- -est: added to adjectives, as in biggest, slowest, happiest, latest;
- -ly: added to adjectives to form adverbs, as in sadly, happily, brightly, lately;
- -ment: added to verbs to form nouns, as in payment, advertisement, development;
- -ness: added to adjectives to form nouns, as in darkness, happiness, sadness;

How Do We Learn?

- One of the most effective techniques is to work on the recall of information from our long-term memories. Research that shows that we can strengthen our ability to recall long-term memories by retrieving them. This is called 'the retrieval effect' or 'the testing effect' and is where testing becomes a learning tool rather than an assessment tool (Ofsted).
- The more times we try and retrieve something, the stronger the memory gets. But it is the struggle that is important. If we re-teach content instead of getting children to try and retrieve information they've probably forgotten, the memory does not get strengthened in the same way.
- Learning stays in short term memory until we lock it into longer term memory - Orthographic store. Visual memory – take a photo, does it look right?
- If we do not use it regularly, it will be lost.
- Revise and review is a crucial element helps to lock into long term memory little and often repetition.

Common Spelling Mistakes:

- Using the wrong consonant (e.g., spelling cat as kat)
- Using the wrong vowel (e.g. spelling seat as seet)
- Leaving out consonants (e.g. spelling kicking as kiking)
- Leaving out a vowel (e.g. spelling plain as plan)
- Writing only one consonant, when a consonant should be doubled (e.g, spelling butter as buter)
- Leaving in an "e" that should be dropped (e.g., spelling riding as rideing)
- Reversing letters (e.g. spelling foil as fiol)
- Leaving out the "silent e" (e.g., spelling kite as kit)
- Using ys instead of ies (e.g. cherrys instead of cherries)
- Spelling words phonetically when a specific suffix should be used instead (e.g., spelling vacation as vacashin)
- Using an "s" instead of a "c" or a "c" instead of an "s" (e.g. absense instead of absence or offence instead of offense)
- Forgetting rules like "i before e except after c" (e.g. spelling receive as recieve)

The KS2 SATs spelling tests

Spelling should be a whole school responsibility

Be mindful of what it tested at the end of KS2. Whilst it is important to explicitly teach spelling across the school, it is also crucial for year 6 teachers to be aware of the pitch and coverage of words tested at the end of KS2.

70% of the spelling test rules were first introduced in years 3 and 4 with the remaining 30% focused on years 5 and 6.

Explicit teaching of spelling in years 3 and 4 is essential, as well as good phonics and spelling teaching within EYFS and KS1.

The KS2 SATS spelling tests

2018 KS2 Spelling test words in order:

thumb (93.2%), trouble (86.8%), mixture (88.6%), portable (89.3%), dough (87.1%), science (83.8%), attention (80.5%), obtained (79.1%), weightless (77%), council (69.8%), suffered (77.7%), typical (61.6%), usually (59.5%), cautious (58.2%), essential (52.4%), vague (39.3%), adventurous (42.7%), architect (31.7%), descendant(18.9%) and inconceivable (14%).

(Percentages represent the number of pupils nationally who spelled that word correctly.)

portable

dough

year 5/6 – suffixes – ible/able

Able more common than ible. If it ends in a consonant, add able e.g. comfortable, breakable, fixable, treatable year 5/6 – letter strings (one of the trickiest!) (through, borough, nought, thought, lough, bough (alternative pronunciations – oa, ow)

'Oh you gorgeous hunk!' word families

Scienceyear 2 – phase 6 (soft c) 'likes to sit with his friend'Cee i ycity, central, cyclepaint a picture in your mindYear 3/4 – etymology (Latin)scene, fascin'the study of science'

attention

year 2 – tion – station, revise in year 3/4 - suffix - sounds like shun – add to verb to form noun (tion/sion/ssion/cian) tion is most common often preceded by an a. - if it ends in l, n, or, r add sion, all other letters – tion. This is an exception!

essential year 5/6 – cial, tial endings

- cial after vowel (beneficial)
- tial after consonant

weightless year 3/4 - rare letter strings (neighbour, eight) (alternative pronunciations – ey, ei, eigh) council year 2 – not many of these! (pencil, fossil, nostril) hard c, soft one near homophone (counsel)(year 3,4) e i y sufferedyear 2 - adding vowel suffixes – (2 syllable) words ending in erobtainedadding ed

year 3/4 - y sounds like i not at end of word, unstressed vowel (over annunciate) what is the tricky bit? What else could the ending be? Colour in, find other examples, word web - gym, Egypt, mystery usually year 3/4 – adjectives to form adverbs

If it is a consonant suffix, just add ly to the root word If root word ends in y, change to i (happily) adventurous year 3/4 – vowel suffix ous drop e to add vowel suffix If it had a 'g' sound, e must be kept to keep the soft 'g' sound (outrageous) inconceivable year 5/6 - prefix –in = not i before e soft c – 'c likes to curl up with e vowel suffix - ible/able drop e to add vowel suffix = can't hear root word - terrible

Explicitly teach words from across the curriculum

Although there are many words tested at the end of KS2 linked to the spelling rules, it is also important to explicitly teach words from across the curriculum, as part of the spelling curriculum. The words highlighted below are taken from other subjects in the national curriculum and pupils should be confident about what they mean and understand how to use some of them in different contexts.

nutrients	variable	history	predator	poverty
vertebrates	pitch	eight	invasion	environment
evolution	condensation	increase	empire	climate
air resistance	prediction	position	ancestors	settlement
volume	classification	reversible	influence	Europe

How do we Teach Spelling?

Consistency of approach.....INTENT

- Whole class teaching mastery approach
- Principles of QFT MOY
- Timetable between 60 and 75 minutes of instructional time per week
- Sequence learning over a week/2 weeks
- Daily lessons 15 mins

Testing As A Memory Aid

Testing is a key part of the learning process when it comes to spelling.

- Culminative teaching and learning
- Pre-test and end of week test The Fab 5
- Children correct their own spelling (under teacher supervision);
- Statutory words lists/high frequency words;
- Explicit teaching/modelling teaching children to look for and identify spelling patterns in the selected words word study.

	Week 6	Lesson 13 Learn Strategies for le words: words fr statutory and po spelling lists	rom		elt '-gue' and d spelt '-que'

What should a lesson look like?

Explanations, instruction and any learning activities should be based upon:

- word origin and history (etymology);
- syllable patterns and units of meaning (morphology);
- letter patterns (phonics).

Explicitly teach the spelling rules.

In some schools, spelling is still assessed (in whatever from, e.g. test/activity) but not explicitly taught to pupils. Pupils need to be clear about the rules for spelling. A good strategy to use, which was widely utilised in the DfE Spelling bank.

Revise/Review

Pupils review previous learning, either within the year group (previous day) or from previous years, so that they can consolidate their learning. The review work does not have to relate to the new learning but should be linked, where appropriate.

Teach/Model/Demonstrate

Teachers explicitly teach a spelling rules or the particular spelling strategy that they can use to spell words effectively. Can also include the statutory word list words/common exception words, especially the words that do not follow any particular rule.

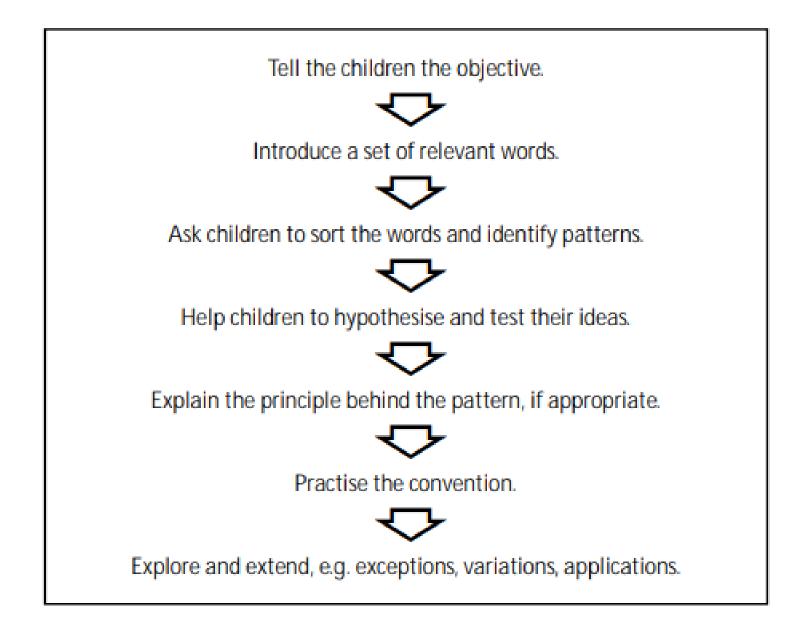

Practise/Investigate

Pupils should be encouraged to work independently during this part of the lesson so that they can effectively try out their new learning.

Apply/Assess

Pupils can discuss their new learning, and apply their new learning into their spoken language, reading and writing. Pupils should be encouraged to use their new words in their ongoing writing.

Teaching spelling conventions

Examples of investigations

SHARED INVESTIGATION (teacher led) Investigate the adding of ing to words

Prompts

- 1 Look at my list of words (see column 1). How would I change clean to cleaning? See to seeing? etc. Amend to become column 2.
- 2 If in doubt, just add ing. Most words do.
- 3 Here are some words (see columns 3 and 4) which do something rather odd when we add ing. What happens? Can you work out why this happens? What do they have in common? Further prompt: Look at the sound before the double letter.
- 4 Words which have a short (rap) vowel before the final consonant double it. It's useful for the reader too – s/he can see that the vowel is short.
- 5 Here's another group of words (see columns 5 and 6 split digraphs) which do something different. What happens?
- 6 Does our other rule still hold good in this list? (Short vowels create doubles, long vowels don't). The rule does hold good.
- 7 Tell me three rules about adding ing, completing these sentences:
 - Most words …
 - A short (rap) vowel just before the end tells us ...
 - Words ending in e will ...

Simple – add ing		Short vowels – double		Drop e + add ing
think thin dream dre say say do doi walk wa go goi send sen pack pao jump jun	inking s eaming s ying h ing p alking c ing c nding k ucking fi mping s	shop shut plan dap chat let fit skip	hopping shopping shutting hugging planning clapping chatting letting fitting skipping running	hope take write bite share decide drive care make save shine	hoping taking writing biting sharing deciding driving caring making saving shining

Notes

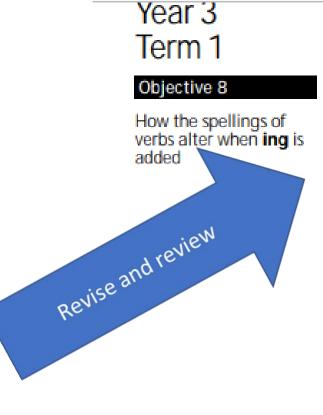

- Most words just add ing.
- Words ending in e drop the e to add ing. (Caution: The dropped e applies to split digraphs – 'Magic e'. It doesn't apply to other e endings – seeing, being, freeing – but as these are all high-frequency words, children don't usually suffer confusion about this. It is probably best to leave it unless children raise it or start making the error.)
- Words with a short vowel before the final letter double the final letter.

Whole-class approaches

- Collect up a list of ing words and their base words to compare. Investigate the effect of adding ing to the words in the 'ending in e' and 'short vowels' lists.
- Provide some base words and ask children to add ing on individual whiteboards to show you.

Group task

Card-sorting activities.

Extension activity (very challenging)

- Add ing to words ending in
 - c (add in a k);
 - vowel + y (just add);
 - I (double the I).

Revise and review

Objective 8 (1 of 2)

How words change when er and est are added

Whole-class approach

 Identify words ending in er and est in Shared Reading/Writing – show how changing the suffix changes the meaning.

Group tasks

- Play a matching game base words have to be paired with suffixes.
 Position additional function cards (e.g. 'Take away the final e') between base words and suffixes where appropriate.
- Investigation find words that end with er and est and group them according to the spelling rule.

Extension activities

- Find exceptions, e.g. good, better, best; bad, worse, worst; far, farther, farthest.
- Investigate the use of more and most, e.g. more curious, more intelligent, more sensible.

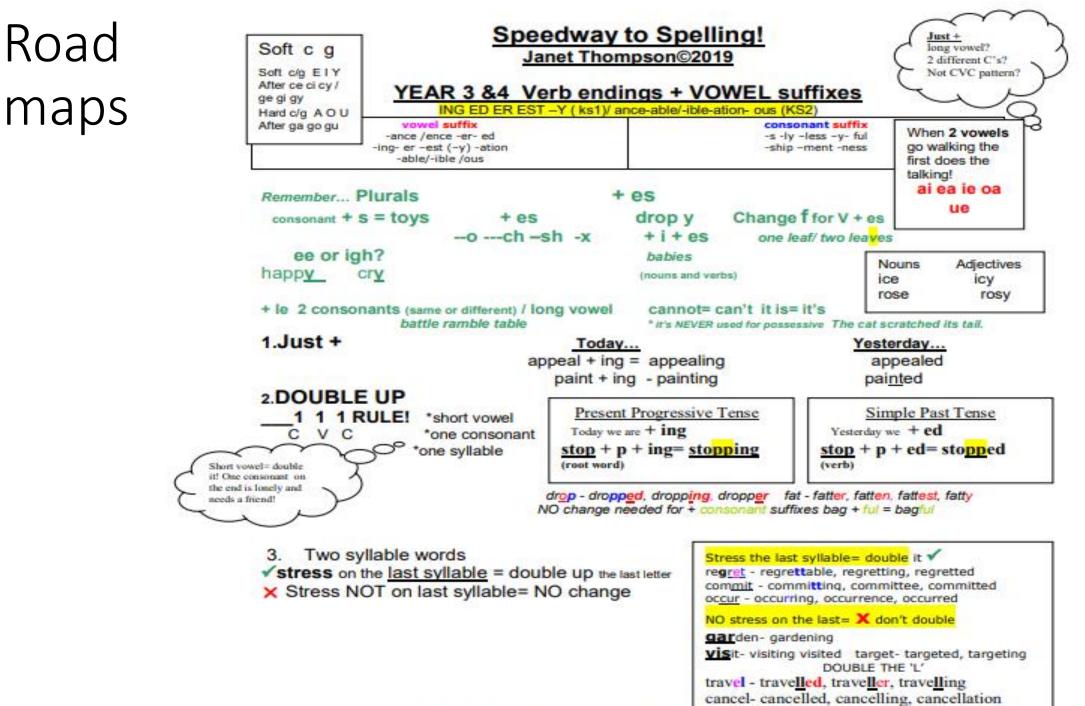

Typical words		e words
quick	quicker	quickest	nice	nicer	nicest
cold	colder	coldest	late	later	latest long	longer	longest	close	closer	closest
tall	taller	tallest	ripe	riper	ripest
rich	richer	richest	rude	ruder	rudest

Short (rap) vowels		y words
big hot thin fat	bigger hotter thinner fatter	biggest hottest thinnest fattest	happy chilly funny crazy lucky	happier chillier funnier crazier luckier	happiest chilliest funniest craziest luckiest

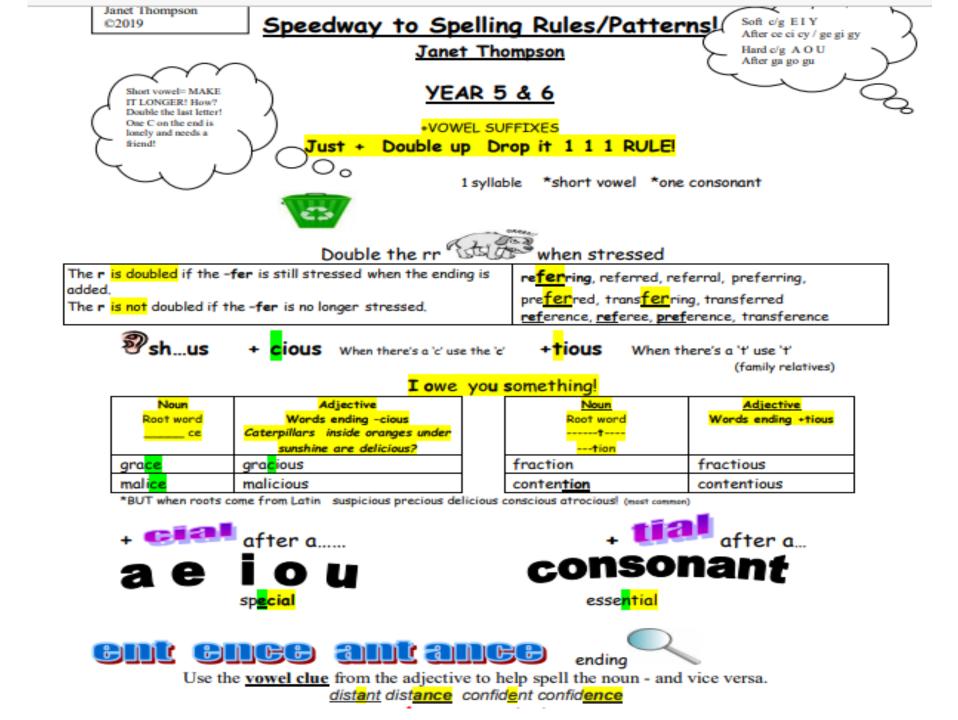

Notes

- Most words just add er and est.
- Words ending in e drop the e and take the suffix.
- Words containing a short vowel before the final consonant double the consonant.
- Words ending in y change y to i to add the suffix.

Useful strategies – top tips

Strategies	Explanations
1. Syllables	To learn my word I can listen to how many syllables there are so I can break it into smaller bits to remember (e.g. Sep-tem-ber , ba-by)
2. Base words	To learn my word I can find its base word (e.g. Smiling – base smile + ing , e.g. women = wo + men)
3. Analogy	To learn my word I can use words that I already know to help me (e.g. could : would , should)
4. Mnemonics	To learn my word I can make up a sentence to help me remember it (e.g. could – O U Lucky Duck; people – people eat orange peel like elephants)

Spelling Journals

pupils to take responsibility for their spelling learning pupils to refer back to previous learning teachers to see how pupils are tackling tricky bits of spelling teachers and pupils to discuss spelling with parents and carers Spelling journals can take many forms and are much more than just a word book. Spelling journals can be used for

- practising strategies
- learning words
- recording rules/conventions/generalisations as an aide-memoire
- word lists of really tricky words (spelling enemies)
- 'Having a go' at the point of writing
- ongoing record of statutory words learnt
- investigations
- recording spelling targets or goals
- spelling tests.

In the programme, there is flexibility for journals to be set up in a variety of ways. Below are a few recommendations:

- Make sure that the journal can be used flexibly. A blank exercise book gives much more scope for pupils to try out ideas and organise their learning than a heavily structured format.
- Model different ways of using the journal. A class spelling journal or examples from different pupils could be used to do this.
- Give time for pupils to use their journals and to review them.
- Do the majority of spelling work in the iournal.

Resources

Whole-class consolidation activities

Show me' cards

To each child, distribute cards with which they will indicate choices, e.g. s or es. When you provide a word, they show you the card they think is correct. This strategy obliges every child to pay attention and participate. The teacher can see at a glance who has understood the rule and who has not.

Individual whiteboards

Each child has a whiteboard (these can be made by laminating A4 white card). The cards can be used to practise and show spellings, perhaps examples already flashed and hidden by the teacher. Alternatively, they can be used to try out rules on new words, and then shown simultaneously to the teacher. Whiteboards are good for participation, brainstorming and at-a-glance assessment.

Postboxes

Two trays or boxes are used to sort cards. For example, a rainbow box and a cow box could be used to collect cards for different pronunciations of ow. A set of cards can be distributed among members of the class ready for posting, and later, the postbox can be emptied to look for patterns.

Human words

Each child has a letter card, and children stand in line to create words. Spelling transformations can then be made by other children carrying, for example, an apostrophe. Another version of this uses base words with which different compound words can be formed.

Have a go...

- Model writing a sentence and being unsure about how to spell a word. Talk about the tricky part in the word and some of the choices you might have for that part. You could refer to a GPC chart to find the choices if appropriate.
 Model writing the word with two or three choices on your own enlarged version of a Have a go sheet and then model choosing the one that you think looks right and using it in your sentence. It is important that pupils learn to ask themselves the question 'Does it look right?' or 'Have I seen it like this in a book?' to help them make their choices.
- If you are still unsure of the spelling, put a wiggly line under it in the sentence to signal that this needs checking by the teacher, or the pupil if appropriate, during proofreading time.
- Model continuing with writing and not checking the correct version of the spelling at this point. This is important so that the flow of writing is not unnecessarily slowed.
- 5. Make sure you model this process briefly in writing in all curriculum areas.
- Pupils use their own Have a Go sheet (or group sheet) whenever they write and refer to GPC charts and other classroom displays as support, as well as specific strategies that have been taught for using at the point of writing.
- 7. Remind them never to make more than three attempts at a word.

Misspelt words will need to be corrected in line with your school's spelling and marking policy. Some of these words may be included in pupils' individual word lists for learning.

Spelling journals

A number of children are now successfully using spelling journals as a selfhelp device and a place to record their work on spelling. The journal can include:

- a log of personal errors;
- personal spelling lists to learn;
- aides-memoire of spelling conventions;
- working out from spelling investigations;
- dictionary of high frequency words learnt/unlearnt;
- spelling targets;
- spelling 'tries';
- tests.

Learning spellings

Intent

A school policy can help inform

- · the strategies for learning spellings that are being taught
- · routines for learning spellings
- · links with home learning.

Learning needs to happen in school and at home. There is little evidence, though, that the traditional practice of learning spellings (usually 10) at home and being tested on them (usually on a Friday) is effective. However, there is a high expectation within the new National Curriculum that pupils will learn many increasingly complex words. Within the programme, learning spellings is built into each six-week block. Within the sessions a range of strategies for learning spellings are introduced and practised. This enables pupils to choose the strategies they find most effective for learning different words.

Tips for learning spellings at home

Learning at home needs to be an extension of the practice in school. Consider

- limiting the number of words to five or less a week to ensure success and enable deeper learning
- making sure pupils and parents have access to the range of learning strategies which have been taught in school, to use in home learning
- assessing spellings in context, for example: learning spellings in a given sentence, generating sentences for each word, assessing through unseen dictated sentences
- keeping an ongoing record of words learnt and setting very high expectations of correct application in writing once a word has been learned.

The learning strategies on the next two pages are introduced incrementally throughout the programme and can then be used to support learning spellings at home.
