- STEM Learning Monthly Newsletter

Flying High Teaching School Hub Spring 25 Newsletter

Please see our Spring 2 Newsletter attached which includes news and updates from Flying High Teaching School Hub.

In this edition:

- Our new Literacy Excellence Centre is launched - learn more about how it can support teaching of English, reading, writing and oracy across primary and secondary.
- English Hub are hosting a Showcase event on Wednesday 19th March for eligible schools to learn more about funding and specialist support available for phonics and early reading
- NPQs are still open to start in April/May – find out more information about the delivery model, case studies and which NPQ is best for your staff
- A reminder about the Early Career Training Entitlement starting in September (replacing the current ECF curriculum)
- Early Years Hub has been extended – find out what free training opportunities are on offer for your Early Years teams.

Teaching Sequence for Writing

Teresa Heathcote will be partnering with the soon to be launched Literacy Excellence Centre (LEC), and the first programmes she will be running will be:

1. Induction / Repeat sessions for the Teaching Sequence – so new staff in NST schools can be trained in September.

2. A new cohort of TSW if you have any schools that want to go through it in fully.
3. Additional sessions on planning for writing (for leaders, teachers and children)

All new sessions will come with a dedicated toolkit to provide better scaffolding and consistency back in school, along with diagnostic tool and guided reviews to trouble shoot and learn together.

Attached are flyers for 1 and 2 above, which contain further information.
